

Art & Artefact Kitchen Design by Cuisines Steam

2 HOURS AGO by ANI TZENKOVA

A true ode to travels and souvenirs, this kitchen renovation by Canadian kitchen company Cuisines Steam began with a deep desire to inundate the space with memories of past, present and future adventures. The end result is a sleek, dynamic kitchen that is not only highly personalized but it tells the story of the unique objects that it houses.

"The direction of the project was very clear from the first meeting as the client expressed her desire to have a kitchen that didn't look like a kitchen. A 'non-kitchen kitchen' to be exact. A large portion of our initial meeting was dedicated to discussing the personal stories behind the impressive quantity of sculptures, rocks, baskets and various artifacts that were acquired during extensive travels and are displayed throughout the client's home. It was crystal clear at that moment that those stories and memories are what the kitchen needed to reflect. Those special objects needed a space in order to come to life."

Photography Mario Dubreuil

www.cuisinesteam.ca